

JAMES O. EASTLAND COLLECTION
FILE SERIES 1: PERSONAL/POLITICAL SUBSERIES 19: CAMPAIGN RECORDS

Senator James O. Eastland competed in six elections over the course of his career. These campaigns occurred in 1942, 1948, 1954, 1960, 1966, and 1972 (see chart below). The files in this subseries of forty-three boxes are arranged by election years, and this subseries is one of the few in the collection that preserves the original filing system of Eastland's office. Within each campaign, the records are first organized alphabetically by counties, and these county files primarily contain letters of support to Eastland. The county files are followed by various subject folders such as newspaper clippings, mailing lists, voter's lists, speaking engagements, policy statements, campaign literature, and form letters. The senator also prepared a campaign for 1978, and this subseries contains those files, as well as documents on his retirement announcement and subsequent public reaction.

The extensive time span covered by these files documents transformations in the conduct of political elections. Files from 1942, for instance, include logs from county managers reflecting a more personal and grassroots style. Also of interest is a letter from U.S. Senator Theodore Bilbo urging Eastland to join the armed forces during World War II and Eastland's response that Bilbo's motives were not patriotic but purely political as Eastland was then running against Bilbo's handpicked candidate. With each successive campaign (except for the years 1948 and 1960 when Eastland ran unopposed), the amount of documentation increases. After the 1972 election, the Senate investigated Eastland's campaign for taking an illegal contribution. Eastland's letters of the time, however, state that all members of Congress were audited after the 1972 campaign, and although cleared, Eastland's staff endeavored to ensure that similar accusations would not reoccur.

Examination of the campaign subseries would permit a researcher to determine the network of behind-the-scene power brokers that existed throughout the state of Mississippi from the 1940's through the 1970's. The subseries contains many letters from Eastland's political allies keeping him abreast of local political developments while allies and constituents probed Eastland for his stance on issues of the day, such as segregation, civil rights, and agricultural policies.

Favor files and oversized campaign items appear at the end of the subseries. In many cases, favor files are identical to constituent case files in which Eastland provided assistance for his constituents. Eastland's staff preserved copies of case file letters (or, failing that, accumulated index cards retaining the pertinent information) in self-styled "favor files," which were later used to compile campaign mailing lists. The relatively smaller size of the favor files, however, indicates that not every case file automatically became a favor file – thus, the preservation of these duplicate copies for interested researchers.

Eastland Elections

Campaign Year	Candidates (Party Affiliation)	Notes
1942	Eastland (D) vs. Wall Doxey (D)	Until the 1960s, Mississippi was a one party state where the general election effectively happened in the primaries. Thus, Eastland's opponents during these years were also Democrats.
1948	Eastland (D)	Eastland ran unopposed.
1954	Eastland (D) vs. Carroll Gartin (D)	Until the 1960s, Mississippi was a one party state where the general election effectively happened in the primaries. Thus, Eastland's opponents during these years were also Democratic.
1960	Eastland (D)	Eastland ran unopposed.
1966		Eastland (D) vs. Prentiss Walker (R)
1972		Eastland (D) vs. Gil Carmichael (R)
1978	Maurice Dantin (D) vs. Thad Cochran (R)	Eastland chose not to run for reelection, and Cochran won Eastland's seat in the Senate.
