

JAMES O. EASTLAND COLLECTION
FILE SERIES 2: PUBLIC RELATIONS
SUBSERIES 5: FLOOR SPEECHES

The ten boxes of this subseries contain drafts of speeches and occasionally research material for speeches that Eastland delivered on the floor of the Senate. They are arranged chronologically and then by topic. Several of the speeches are marked “not delivered” when curators could not determine through comparison with the Congressional Record that Eastland had delivered the speech on the floor of the Senate. Undated material appears at the end. Most of the speeches are concerned with agriculture, communism, and civil rights. The number of speeches increased in the 1950s following the Supreme Court’s Brown v. Board of Education decision when Eastland became a leading Senate proponent for segregation. As Eastland aged, he spoke less on the floor of the Senate, particularly after his 1972 election campaign. In fact, many of the speeches that Eastland gave in the years that followed were tributes to retiring and deceased colleagues. Similar tributes to colleagues also appear in the Congressional Correspondence and Speeches subseries.
