I've got baggage.

I've been feeling really crappy lately. Every time I turn around, something else is falling apart. Say, could you hold this for a minute?

check it

Take a minute to unload whatever's been bringing you down. Big or small, doesn't matter. Sometimes it just helps to get it out there and know someone heard it.

Take that for you?

I'm really loving life right now. Things are finally clicking into place. I've got happiness to spare. Let me lighten your load.

carry it

Take a minute to read about someone else's issues. Then choose a song to help get them through the pain. We'll send it along to them.

Dennis Ritchie, Trailblazer in Digital Era, Dies at 70
By STEVE LOHR
Published: October 13, 2011

Dennis M. Ritchie, who helped shape the modern digital era by creating software tools that power things as diverse as search engines like Google and smartphones, was found dead on Wednesday at his home in Berkeley Heights, N.J. He was 70.

Mr. Ritchie, who lived alone, was in frail health in recent years after treatment for prostate cancer and heart disease, said his brother Bill.

In the late 1960s and early '70s, working at Bell Labs, Mr. Ritchie made a pair of lasting contributions to computer science. He was the principal designer of the C programming language and co-developer of the Unix operating system, working closely with Ken Thompson, his longtime Bell Labs collaborator.

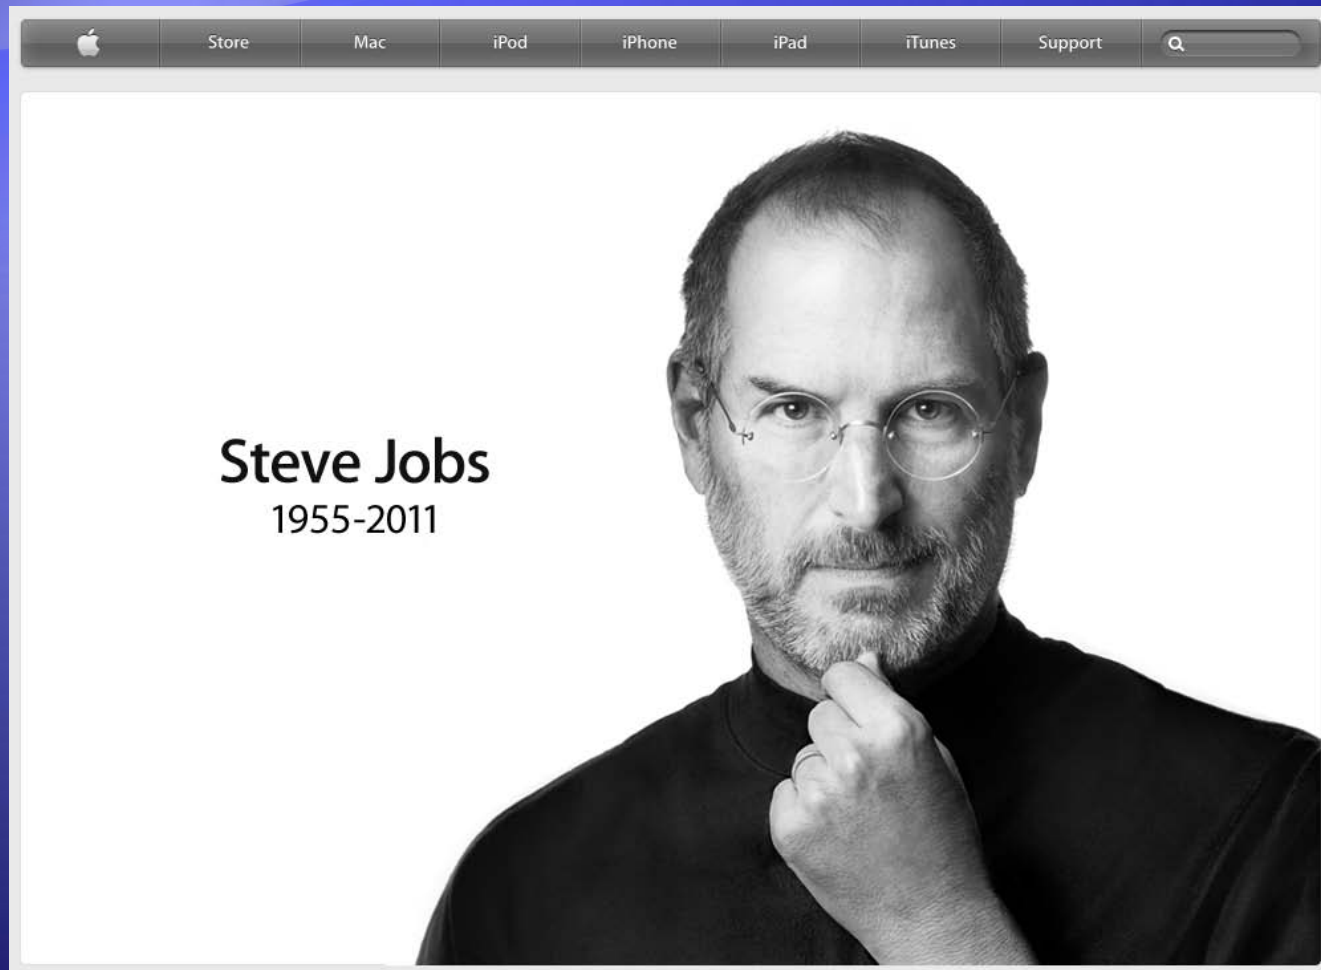

The C programming language, a shorthand of words, numbers and punctuation, is still widely used today, and successors like C++ and Java build on the ideas, rules and grammar that Mr. Ritchie designed. The Unix operating system has similarly had a rich and enduring impact. Its free, open-source variant, Linux, powers many of the

Steve Jobs in his own words

By Tim Stevens posted October 5th 2011 9:00PM

Because the people who are crazy enough to think they can change the world are the ones who do.

R.I.P. Steve Jobs

I'll always stay connected with Apple. I hope that throughout my life I'll sort of have the thread of my life and the thread of Apple weave in and out of each other, like a tapestry. There may be a few years when I'm not there, but I'll always come back

— Steve Jobs, 1985

That's a quote from a Playboy interview Steve Jobs gave back in 1985. February of 1985, to be specific, right before Steve would be ousted from the company that he co-founded with Steve Wozniak and Ronald Wayne in 1976. Apple of course famously grew out of a garage, the brains of Woz, the drive of Jobs building the company over the next nine years into a powerhouse in the burgeoning home computer market.

Join us for a look back at the life of Steve Jobs.

THINK DIFFERENT

Tribute Video to Steve Jobs

Rather than writing his obituary, I thought it would be better to pay tribute to Steve Jobs by stealing one of his ideas. That's why I made this last Think Different video, in memoriam.

I'm sure he would have hated it, but whatever. You're dead now, Steve, you crazy round peg in the square hole, you handsome bastard, you insufferable and unrepeatable genius you, you awesome man with The Vision. Deal with it, because now the world will suck a bit more without your love for perfection, your hyperbolic obsession with magical devices, your insanely great ideas and booms and one more things.

Fanboys and haters, friends and foes—especially your foes, who now will not be able to copy your ideas anymore—will miss you dearly.

I know I will.

Steve Jobs Tributes

- ◆ Steve Wozniak : People sometimes have goals in life. Steve Jobs exceeded every goal he ever set for himself.
- ◆ Bill Gates: For those of us lucky enough to get to work with him, it's been an insanely great honor. I will miss Steve immensely.
- ◆ Mark Zuckerberg : Steve, thank you for being a mentor and a friend. Thanks for showing that what you build can change the world. I will miss you.
- ◆ Sergey Brin : From the earliest days of Google, whenever Larry and I sought inspiration for vision and leadership, we needed to look no farther than Cupertino. Steve, your passion for excellence is felt by anyone who has ever touched an Apple product (including the macbook I am writing this on right now).

Access for Relatives/Guardians

BEFORE COMPLETING THIS FORM, PLEASE READ THE STATEMENTS BELOW CONCERNING YOUR RIGHTS:

The Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act (FERPA) is a federal law that gives students access to and protects the privacy of their educational records. Educational records are any records directly related to a student that are maintained by the institution.

Students enrolled at The University of Mississippi have a right to inspect and review their educational records (with only limited exceptions) and a right to request amendment of those records. Except as required by federal law, educational records and the information contained in those records may not be disclosed to third parties, including parents or spouses, without the written consent of the student.

By completing and submitting this form, you are giving permission for educational records and information to be disclosed to your parent, guardian, or other designated individual(s). Designated individuals who wish to obtain information about your current academic progress should contact the office of your academic dean. Staff members in the dean's office will assist them in obtaining the information they request. Other requests for information should be directed to the relevant department, such as the Registrar's Office, the Bursar's Office or the Office of Financial Aid.

Note:

- Carefully review the information below regarding your relatives and/or guardians. To edit the contact information, select Change. If you wish to add, select Add.
- You may authorize up to two parents, guardians, or other designated individual(s) to receive WebIDs. Under normal circumstances, parent WebIDs are created within 24 hours of the request being made.

Prevent unauthorized access by closing your Web browser when finished. © Copyright 2011 University of Mississippi.

Blackboard Mobile Learn

OCTOBER 6, 2011 BY PENNY RICE (EDIT)

Would you like to access Blackboard from anywhere?
Now there's an App for that.

Introducing Blackboard Mobile Learn at The University of Mississippi

The Office of Information Technology is pleased to announce the launch of Blackboard Mobile Learn, a free mobile application that brings interactive teaching and learning to mobile devices and gives students full access to their Blackboard course information directly from their smartphones. This intuitive application, designed specifically for each of the major mobile platforms, allows students to check grades and assignments, view documents, create threaded discussion posts and comment on blogs and journals, upload content, and more. Instructors can use the app to post announcements, create blog and discussion posts, comment on their students' blogs, discussions, and journals, and upload media files.

Blackboard Mobile Learn is available on the iPhone, iPad, iPod Touch, Android devices, BlackBerry smartphone devices, and HP web OS devices, and works over Wi-Fi, as well as all cellular networks. The Mobile Learn app may be downloaded for free at the appropriate device App Store.
