

Meeting Notes from 10/14/2003, Weir Hall room 107

Representatives from Memphis Communication Corporation met with us to demonstrate several new classroom technology applications. The featured application was handheld devices for receiving interactive, immediate feedback from students in classroom settings. For example, instructors can conduct instantaneous polls, take attendance, administer short quizzes, etc. with these devices. The demonstration lasted about an hour.

No further discussion took place at this time.