December 9 – 10, 2013

CONFERENCE OVERVIEW

IJP – International Journal of Pavements has completed its twelfth year of publication in 2013. On behalf of IJP publisher and editors, we are pleased to announce the first IJPC – International Journal of Pavements Conference – to be held on December 9 – 10, 2013 in São Paulo, SP, Brazil. Conference web site: <http://www.ijpavement.com/>

The IJPC encompasses the following subject areas: accelerated pavement testing; modern practices to design, maintain, and rehabilitate asphalt and concrete pavements; airports, highways, low volume roads; new stabilization and paving technologies; nondestructive evaluation; material testing and characterization; life-cycle analysis and pavement management; sustainability practices; and innovative applications of advanced computer modeling and remote sensing technologies.

This will be an excellent forum to reach out to a large number of industry professionals, educators, researchers, transportation engineers, and agency officials involved in education, research, building, and preserving transportation infrastructure worldwide.

This conference will provide a unique opportunity to interact and exchange information among professionals and educators of several countries, who are active in designing, constructing, maintaining and preserving, and managing pavement assets. Our main goal is to publicize IJPC among urban planners, engineers and architects, technologists, environmental assessment professionals, city managers, highway and airport agencies, field engineers and constructors, academic researchers, and students. Please forward this announcement to your colleagues.

The top 15 best papers will be published in a special issue of the 2013 IJP journal.
